

Adventures On the Silk Road

FEBRUARY 5TH AT 2PM

The Silk road connected Medieval Europe and China through the remote mountains and deserts of Central Asia. It brought fabulous wealth but it also brought destruction. Conquered by Russia in the 1800's these lands became republics of the USSR, which itself inflicted great suffering on the people and damage to the environment. As of 1991, they are now independent nations.

Their common language is still Russian, but each new nation is finding its own way in the world. Richard Jordan is a former President of the Etobicoke Historical Society and former Toronto Star local history columnist.
